European Algae Industry Summit

Lisbon, Portugal

19th & 20th
April
2023

For our 11th year, ACI's European Algae Industry Summit is heading to Lisbon, Portugal on the 19th and 20th April 2023, to continue its exploration of the algae industry's development. The event will take a look at the industry's growth over the previous year and the prediction on its future.

This new edition will focus on improving production methods, both from an efficiency and a sustainable perspective, with case studies from key players of each segment bringing forward their experience. The conference will also take an in-depth look into the potential of algae in the food industry, algae as a biomaterial, the applications of algae in cosmetics, as well as the way to get algae to the next level, on a standards, awareness and marketing levels. The various conference topics will be discussed through presentations, case studies sessions and interactive panel discussions, to ensure a positive exchange with all industry actors involved.

The participants will also have the chance to discuss how to keep the industry thriving as a whole during the numerous Q&As, and the extended networking breaks.

Join us in Lisbon for a highly interactive & informative conference, whilst enjoying the networking opportunities
